CHILD PROTECTION

CHILD ABUSE INDICATORS Children may experience multiple, overlapping types of abuse or neglect. Harm may be caused by adults, adolescents, or other children. You don't need to be certain, reasonable suspicion is enough to report. Authorities will assess and respond. Contact Child Protection Services in your state/territory

Domestic and Family Violence includes experiencing sustained violence in the home or witnessing an important person being hurt. It can underlie many of the following indicators.

Foetal Abuse refers to harm or risk to an unborn child from maternal substance use or violence during pregnancy.
